

Happy Valentine's Day

It's nearly February 14th, the time to send your lover things like flowers, heart shaped sweets, chocolates, cards or another present. Of course, you can also send something to a secret admirer, or simply to a friend. There are always plenty of gifts to choose from.

History of Valentine's Day

The story dates back to the time of Roman Emperor Claudius II in the third century AD. The day gets its name from a saint in Rome called Valentine. The Emperor didn't allow soldiers to get married. Yet, as a man of the Church, Valentine didn't agree with the Emperor and went against the law, secretly marrying couples.

Unfortunately, the Emperor found out and had Valentine thrown into prison and sentenced to death. While he was in jail, he fell in love with the blind daughter of his jailer. Before he was killed on February 14, 269 AD, he sent her a letter telling her he loved her and signed it 'Your Valentine'.

How Valentine's Day grew

In England in the 1700's, Valentine's Day was similar to how we celebrate it today. Lovers began to show their love with gifts of flowers, sweets and cards, known as 'valentines'. In the 1800's two commercial ideas became a success. First, Mrs Howland made cards that people could buy. Today, the best selling day for cards is Christmas, and the second best selling day is Valentine's Day. Second, Mr Cadbury designed the chocolate heart shaped box for your 'sweetheart'. On Valentine's Day every year, there are at least 36 million heart shaped boxes of chocolates sold.

Tips for Valentine's Day

Not only can you give your valentine chocolates or a card. You can also choose from flowers, balloons, teddy bears, sweets, or jewellery. There are about 50 million roses given on Valentine's Day around the world. But, you can also give a friend a valentine, and then a pink rose simply says 'thank you for being my friend'. At school, if you secretly love or admire someone, you can give them a red rose, which means 'I love you', anonymously so that the person who gets it doesn't know who it's from. Of course, you can make your own special valentine like baking some heart shaped cupcakes, or put together a special music playlist. Or just be traditional and write your own Roses are red, violets are blue poem.

Source: www.abcteach.com; www.softschool.com;

Words to help you

the secret admirer = someone who loves someone else in secret so that the other one doesn't know
AD = Anno Domini = years after Christ